“Hundreds of Beavers” is a 2024 action, adventure, and comedy film directed by Mike Cheslik. The movie stars Ryland Brickson Cole Tews, Olivia Graves, Doug Mancheski, and Wes Tank. Set in the 19th century, this supernatural winter epic follows the journey of a drunken applejack salesman who must transform from zero to hero by becoming North America’s greatest fur trapper, all while battling hundreds of beavers.

The narrative centers on Jean Kayak (played by Ryland Brickson Cole Tews), a down-and-out applejack salesman who finds himself in a dire situation. To survive and thrive, Jean must overcome his personal demons and face an army of diabolical beavers. This slapstick epic combines elements of historical fiction with supernatural and comedic twists, creating a unique and entertaining storyline.

Ryland Brickson Cole Tews delivers a standout performance as Jean Kayak, capturing the character's transformation from a hapless salesman to a determined fur trapper. His physical comedy and expressive acting bring a vivid and fearless energy to the role, reminiscent of the best work of Jim Carrey and Bruce Campbell 1. Olivia Graves, Doug Mancheski, and Wes Tank provide strong supporting performances, adding depth and humor to the film.

Mike Cheslik's direction is both inventive and energetic, effectively blending slapstick comedy with action and adventure. The film's pacing keeps the audience engaged, with well-timed gags and creative set pieces that showcase Cheslik's unique vision. The cinematography captures the harsh yet beautiful winter landscape, enhancing the film's visual appeal and immersing the audience in Jean's journey.

The film's soundtrack and sound design play a crucial role in creating an immersive and entertaining experience. The music heightens the comedic and action-packed moments, while the sound effects add to the overall sense of fun and excitement.
