Honest Reviews from the Internet About Night Swim 2024

Roger Ebert Review:

“Before that, she was the film critic for The Associated Press for nearly 15 years and co-hosted the public television series ‘Ebert Presents At the Movies’ opposite Ignatiy Vishnevetsky, with Roger Ebert serving as managing editor. Christy Lemire is a longtime film critic who has written for RogerEbert.com since 2013. The fact that the pool in question is so aggressively bland is also a nice touch. This is not some mid-century, kidney-shaped oasis. Nor is it a modern-day monstrosity with built-in slides, a swim-up bar and a grotto. But eventually he relies too heavily on jump scares, as well as a running bit in which someone inside the pool thinks they see someone standing on the edge, watching, but no one's there. And then once 'Night Swim' goes out of its way to explain what's really happening, it's far less interesting than the ambiguous idea that this pool is just straight-up menacing." – Roger Ebert

IMDb User Review:

"This film is another victim of bad reviews and ratings on RT and IMDb ...and my high-brow critics. I watched 'Night Swim' because Stephen King said he loved it and it reminded him of early Spielberg. It does feel like a Stephen King meets Spielberg kind of story. Pools and kids and unsupervised swimming with suspenseful music? Had me on tender hooks! All the making for 'horror'. I enjoy films where everyday/natural situations and settings (such as the pool and a family coping with illness) provide the 'horror'. Quite aside from adding the Stephen King supernatural element. The filmography in the pool scenes is very reminiscent of Jaws – almost a homage. Well executed and effective. Does it 'lose its way' like some of the critics say? Night Swim is now playing in theatres." – IMDb

Rotten Tomatoes User Review:

"Based on the acclaimed 2014 short film by Rod Blackhurst and Bryce McGuire, the film stars Wyatt Russell (The Falcon and the Winter Soldier) as Ray Waller, a former major league baseball player forced into early retirement by a degenerative illness, who moves into a new home with his concerned wife Eve (Oscar nominee Kerry Condon, The Banshees of Inisherin), teenage daughter Izzy (Amélie Hoeferle, this fall's The Hunger Games: The Ballad of Songbirds and Snakes) and young son Elliot (Gavin Warren, Fear the Walking Dead). Secretly hoping, against the odds, to return to pro ball, Ray persuades Eve that the new home's shimmering backyard swimming pool will be fun for the kids and provide physical therapy for him. Despite a promising start and a handful of solid scares, Night Swim is undone by a premise that just isn't strong enough to support a feature-length film." – Rotten Tomatoes

Fandango Review:

"Night Swim, 2023. Directed by Bryce McGuire. Starring Wyatt Russell, Kerry Condon, Amélie Hoeferle, Gavin Warren, Nancy Lenahan, Jodi Long, Preston Galli, and Aivan Uttapa. SYNOPSIS: Forced into early retirement by a degenerative illness, former baseball player Ray Waller moves into a new house with his wife and two children. Stretching Night Swim out into a 90-minute feature only does a disservice to the idea, straining everything about this concept, from scare factor to logic." – Fandango
